

Treating rosacea early when symptoms start is the best outcome for your patient. Don't wait until it is clinically obvious and understand why we treat with new research findings that will help you in everyday practice